POLK'S Linn County Directory 1913

Albany

Albany, the county seat of Linn County, is beautifully situated on the east bank of the Willamette River, eighty miles south of Portland, and almost in the exact center of the famous Willamette Valley. Surrounded as it is by such a marvelously productive country, and with its unrivaled shipping facilities, the future of the city seems to be assured. Besides having water communication with all points to the north along the river for the greater part of the year, it is connected up with all the surrounding country by many radiating railway lines, and has a passenger service at the present time of fifty trains a day. Railroads already radiate in nine different directions, and we have the promise of at least two more lines to be built in a very short time. With such unrivaled railroad and water connections Albany is fully justified in adopting the cognomen—the "Hub of the Valley."

Albany is a thriving, busy town, and is keeping pace with the natural growth of the magnificent country that is tributary to it. A conservative estimate of its population is 7500, although the last census shows a less number, for the reason that the corporate limits of the city have not been extended for over twenty years, and the suburban population, which is large, was not included in the census report.

The surrounding country is rich beyond measure. No state in the Union can produce such a great diversity of crops, and grow them to that degree of perfection, and all is done without irrigation. New blood from the East is constantly coming in, a more intensive system of agriculture is being introduced, bumper crops of the more profitable products are being raised, and a general condition of prosperity abounds. New railroads will be extended in a year or two at the farthest into the rich valleys lying up in the mountains both to the east and west, and soon the great forests, containing over 1,000,- 000 acres of the best timber on earth, will begin to contribute their wealth to this city.

The growth and progress of the city during the past few years has been all that could be desired by the most sanguine friend. It has been a steady, healthy growth, and its citizens have not discounted the future. Although building has been going steadily on for several years, it would be very difficult at the present time for a renter to find a desirable residence in the city, and the business places also are all full. At the present time a new six-story brick hotel is in process of erection, the estimated cost of which is $65,000; and contracts have been let for the construction of a $90,000 bank building upon which work will begin at once. The Government will next Spring erect a $75,000 Federal building, and at the same time a Carnegie library building will be built at a cost of $20,000. The city has voted a bond issue of $40,000 for a city hall, which will be built as soon as a suitable site can be secured. Besides all this residences without number are springing up in all directions, and there seems to be no reason why this condition should not continue.

It has been the aim of the people to lay the foundation of the city well, so that no public work will have to be remodeled. There is a splendid sewer system covering the main part of the city, and since its installation the city has been remarkably free from any of the diseases usually becoming epidemic. No better water system can be found anywhere. The water comes from a clear, cold and pure mountain stream, and before being distributed passes through the most complete filtration system on the Coast. This filtration plant has been completed within the last few months at a cost of $85,000. All the principal streets have been covered with bitulithic pavement, and sixty blocks will be added before the close of the present season. By far the larger part of the sidewalks now in use are constructed of cement, and all board walks becoming unsafe are required to be replaced with cement. The Oregon Power Company has put in a splendid electric light and power plant, and also furnishes the water supply of the city, the charges for all of which are very fair. There is a very effective fire department; two telephone systems; two daily and two weekly newspapers; five hotels; four banks; one United States postal savings bank, and two commission houses.

As a place for an ideal home it would be hard to find a location offering superior inducements. Almost every religious denomination is represented here, and there are fourteen church buildings, many of them being very beautiful. The educational advantages are of a very high order. Besides having Albany College (a denominational institution under the supervision of the Presbyterians) and a Catholic academy, there is a high school, four graded public schools and a public library. Almost all the secret societies and fraternal organizations of the country are represented, and the membership is large. The undesirable foreign population is very scarce, and society is good. The citizens are enterprising and prosperous, and it is a clean city, with good homes and attractive surroundings.

For the manufacturer the position of Albany as regards the raw material, labor, fuel, markets, climate, transportation facilities, social conditions, make it an ideal location. Albany is drawing to itself an increasing population, by the multiplication of manufacturing industries. It now has the largest exclusive chair factory in the Pacific Northwest; two sawmills; a large furniture factory; two box factories; two planing mills; a shingle mill; two foundries and machine shops; two tanneries; an ice factory; two flouring mills; two creameries and the car shops of the Corvallis & Eastern Railway Co.

One of the great factors in the development of Albany and Linn County is the Albany Commercial Club. This organization is composed of business and professional men, farmers, and people from all walks of life. It has for its object the civic and industrial progress of Albany and all the surrounding country, and as this corps of earnest workers has behind it a united citizenship, it certainly will be able to accomplish a great deal in demonstrating to the people the remarkable advantages of the community.

POLK'S LINN COUNTY DIRECTORY 1913

BROWNSVILLE 123

Brownsville

Was first settled in 1852 and incorporated as a city in 1875. It is beautifully located about halfway up the Willamette Valley at a point where the foothills come down to meet the level bottom land, and is the heart of a very prosperous farming and stock raising district. The town is about 22 miles southeast of Albany, the county seat, and 95 miles south of Portland, on the Woodburn-Springfield branch of the Southern Pacific Railway and the Calapooia River. The country is rolling, the soil fertile and the thousands of sheep grazing upon the foothills and mountain slopes contribute to the general prosperity, which is largely augmented through the great manufacturing plant of the Brownsville Woolen Mills, covering several acres of ground, at the junction of one of the finest water power plants, whose constant and steady power puts into life the innumerable spindles and looms on which the famous Brownsville cloth and blankets are made. The Calapooia River, an excellent water power stream, also furnishes power to operate the flouring mill. This ideal manufacturing spot has been forging steadily ahead for thirty years, and the splendid natural resources and shipping facilities assure its steady progress and growth. As a residential town, it has every advantage, there being two good schools; Catholic, Baptist, Christian, Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian churches. There are no saloons and the people are noted for their hospitality. The following organizations have local lodges here: I. O. O. F., Knights of Pythias and Modern Woodmen. The local bank is capitalized for $30,000. There is an opera house seating 500, a live newspaper, Commercial Club, cannery and creamery, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express and W. U. Telegraph; also telephone service and mail daily. Stages run daily to Crawfordsville and Sweet Home. Population about 1200.

City Officials—Mayor, Fred M Brown; Recorder, Herman L Robe; Treasurer, Charles E Stanard; Marshal, Robert A Sanders. Councilmen—W P Elmore, Wm F Bridges, Jesse G Irvine, Wm W Robe, Flavius Eggleston.

Harrisburg

On the Willamette River and the East Side division of the Southern Pacific Railway and the Eugene extension of the Oregon Electric, 105 miles south of Portland and 26 miles south of Albany, the county seat. Settled in 1853 and incorporated as a city in 1860. It has at this time an assessed valuation of $500,000, with only $8500 indebtedness, which is proof of the city's flourishing condition. The vicinity consists of rich prairie land, and is very productive in the raising of wheat, oats and barley, which comprise a large portion of the shipments from this point, while hop and potato growing is an important industry, and fruit and produce form no inconsiderable portion of the exports. Stock raising is also carried on extensively. A good system of sewers. Electric lights. Religious denominations having churches here are Baptist, Catholic, Christian, Methodist and South Methodist. There is a good public school, with an accredited high school course; an opera house seating 400; a weekly newspaper (The Bulletin); a cornet band, and lodges represented locally are A F & A M, A O U W, I O O F, W O W, M W A, Lincoln Annuity and United Artisans. A free county ferry across the river. Rural route and telephone exchange. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express. Western Union Telegraph. Population about 800.

City Officials—Mayor, O B Long; Recorder, T J Anderson; Treasurer, J L Norwood; Marshal, Mahlon Hawk. Councilmen—J T McMahan, R W Wright, Vivian Cartwright, H R Sherrill, Jacob Marguth and R L Weatherford.

This progressive city was first settled in 1845 and incorporated as a city in 1891. It is situated on the South Santiam River, 92 miles south of Portland and 13 miles southeast of Albany, the county seat. Coal and gold deposits exist, but are not worked. One of the chief industries here is paper making, the mill and equipment for that purpose costing $150,000, but wheat, flour, lumber and produce are also shipped out in quantity. Exclusive of the paper mill, there are in active operation a planing mill and sash and door factory, to run which there is abundant water power. The city, with an assessed valuation of $300,000, is also in possession of an up-to-date electric light plant, three public schools, one library, an opera house and hall, each seating 300; a fire department, two banks and three newspapers, the Express (semi-weekly), the Tribune (weekly), the Criterion (weekly), and contains Presbyterian, Baptist, Christian, Methodist, Catholic and Lutheran churches. Fraternal and other organizations represented locally are A F & A M, A O U W, G A R, I O O F, K of P, K O T M, L O T M, M W A, Order of Eastern Star, Rebekahs, Royal Neighbors, United Artisans, W R C and W O W. POLK'S Benton County Directory 1913

BENTON COUNTY

Benton County is located in the heart of the Willamette Valley, a section that enjoys the widest possible range of agricultural production. Climatic and soil conditions are exceptionally well suited to dairying, horticulture, market gardening, general farming. It is a section of never failing crops and where ten acres, well cultivated, will sustain a family in moderate comfort. For five years Benton County has won the blue ribbon, first prize, at the State Fair of Oregon for having the best products on display. This is not idle talk, but it means something. A county might win the Blue Ribbon once in a number of years, but when one of the smallest counties of the state wins the Blue Ribbon five times in succession it is more than a chance winning. Wherever an exhibit is made Benton County farmers come home with the big prizes. On grains, grasses, on live stock, on apples, peaches, prunes, small fruits, on poultry—whatever the exhibit—Benton County products outclass those of her sister counties.

Corvallis

Corvallis is the county seat of Benton County. It is a thriving little city of more than 5000 inhabitants, situated on the west bank of the Willamette River, 90 miles south of Portland. The ideal city is that which offers the best condiments with the real meat of living. Moral environment, social intercourse, educational facilities, the broadening influences that well-balanced minds crave—these things are some of the things which Corvallis has always endeavored to stimulate. Corvallis has no saloons, but many churches.

Corvallis has more telephones per capita than any city its size in the United States.

Corvallis spent close to a million dollars in civic improvements within the past two and one-half years. Ten miles of cement sidewalks have been laid within the city. Five and one-half miles of bitulithic pavement insures the permanency and beauty of her streets. During 1911 two main sewers were laid at a cost of $200,000, in addition to a system previously installed, which safeguards Corvallis from such diseases as arise from poorly seweraged cities. Corvallis has a constant supply of the purest mountain water, from the melted snows of Mary's Peak, and the most complete distributing system of any city in the state of Oregon. The water is piped 16 miles through two splendid main pipe lines, each feeding into its own concrete reservoir. These reservoirs in turn feed the city mains, which are laid out in such a manner that a constant pressure is afforded to every part of the city. The system is owned by the city.

Transportation facilities at Corvallis are splendid. The West Side main line of the Southern Pacific, soon to be electrified, and to become a part of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern, makes Corvallis a terminal. The Corvallis & Eastern gives through train service to points east and west from the coast to the Cascade. The Portland, Eugene & Eastern is building into the coast mountains south and west from Corvallis by way of Monroe, and extending its main line to Eugene southward from Monroe. The Portland, Eugene & Eastern has been granted franchises for the use of three and one-half miles of streets within the city, and a part of the track laying has been done. Corvallis will soon have city car service on all prominent streets. The Oregon Electric has been granted the use of certain streets in Corvallis. The road is rapidly extending its line to Corvallis, and will doubtless be in operation at an early date. Corvallis is the head of water transportation on the Willamette River, a constant safeguard against high shipping tariffs and a guarantee, with the excellent railroad service, of a constant market for the products of Benton County.

Corvallis has a number of manufacturing industries which afford a market for raw products and employment for many persons. A saw-mill has a daily capacity of 100,000 feet of manufactured lumber. A cannery employs many citizens and affords a ready market for fruit and vegetables. The Corvallis Creamery has been a most important factor in advertising the dairy products of Benton County. In 1911 the creamery purchased 2,594,992 pounds of butter fat, paying an average of 30½ cents per pound. The Corvallis Flouring Mill is one of the largest outside of Portland. A brick and tile factory, manufacturing 1,000,000 brick and 200,000 tile each year; steam laundry; machine shop; planing mill, etc., are other manufacturing industries.

Corvallis has splendid stores carrying stocks that would be creditable to much larger cities. Two daily newspapers keep Corvallis people abreast of the news. The city has free mail delivery and four rural routes carry mail to the farm homes. Corvallis has two National banks. The deposits of these two banks amount to a million and a quarter.

Educational Advantages—Corvallis is the home of the Oregon Agricultural College and has gained through the presence of this great institution the reputation of being the center of technical education in the Northwest. The college is situated on a beautiful campus containing 224 acres on the western edge of the city. The ground alone is valued at $350,000 and with the buildings at more than $1,000,000. There are 18 buildings devoted to administration, agriculture, horticulture, science, foundry, machine shops, electricity, dairying, mining, dormitories, gymnasium and the largest cadet armory in the country. Courses leading to degrees in agriculture, horticulture, poultry husbandry, agronomy, dairying, animal husbandry, bacteriology, entomology, veterinary science, forestry, electrical and mechanical engineering, pharmacy, domestic science and commerce are offered. Oregon Agricultural College means much to Corvallis, both from a commercial standpoint and from the very fact of its presence. The school has already gained a National reputation and bears a most important part in the development of the city. Its true value can scarcely be estimated.

With such advantages as have been enumerated, Corvallis must surely appeal to those who desire a clean city in which to live and educate their children. With healthful climate, pure water, perfect drainage, efficient schools, opportunities for commercial activities, good moral environment, modern conveniences, the best technical college in the Northwest—what further could be desired to make an ideal city?

STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE

The "Philadelphia System" of street numbering is used, one hundred numbers being assigned to each block. Monroe is the dividing line for numbering streets running north and south to Sixteenth street. From Sixteenth street west Orchard is the dividing line. Streets running east and west are numbered from First street west. That portion of the numbered streets lying north of Monroe have prefix N (north). No prefix is used for that portion of numbered streets lying south of Monroe.

Population about 800. Second town in size in Benton County; five miles west of county seat, and about 85 miles south of Portland, on Corvallis & Eastern Railway and Mary's River. Has electric lights, mountain water, two telephone systems, telegraph office, two rural routes out and promise of more, a $4000 public school, $15,000 high school, two colleges, a cement bank building, also cement post-office building, and two cement hardware stores. The business is represented by five general merchandise stores, two hardware stores, a bank, furniture, clothing, bakery, two confectionery stores, butcher shop, feed store, livery and feed stables, garage, a weekly newspaper, blacksmith and repair shop, photographer, dentist, doctors and real estate men. Has morning and evening train and mail connection with main line of Southern Pacific at Albany, 16 miles distant, and a train daily to Yaquina Bay, 65 miles west—(Oregon's ocean beach resort, noted for its fine views and agates). The cement building stage has arrived in the town's progress, and it already has three substantial structures, with promise of more in future. The Benton County Lumber Company, adjoining city, has quite a payroll and is an industry of no mean proportion. Other mills scattered through the hills, not distant, add to the city's commercial importance. Millions of feet of timber accessible and in easy distance. The place offers inducements for increased population by reason of its healthfulness, educational facilities and general tone. No questionable resorts or saloons. Needs manufacturing of some kind—cannery, cheese factory, brick yard, etc.—and all the good people who will come and are willing to hustle and help us grow in a general farming, dairying, stock raising and lumbering country.

PORTLAND will build 6,000 new homes every year for ten years. This company is the best organized and equipped building concern in the Pacific Northwest. A large part of this building will be done by us. That will enable us to pay larger dividends than heretofore. Up to the present time, this company has never failed to pay a quarterly dividend. Our last one was at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, more in future.
